New and Interesting Facts About the Comet.

Western Union Elects Directors---Annual Report.

The President at Boston

BOSTON, October 11 —A reception to the president, at Faneuil hall this afternoon was attended by an immense throng. The president was introduced by Mayor Green and spoke as follows "You have my most sincere gratitude for your cordial and enthusiastic reception I know well these demonstrations, with which the day has been crowded do not proceed from the promptings of personal regard for me. They only give voice to the instinctive loyalty of Boston and Massachusetts to the government of the United States [Applause] I know that they show the respect the citizens of this good old commonwealth and this magnificent city have for the federal authority which they themselves helped constitute, and in this spirit I accept and thank you for your gracious reception As soon as the president ceased to speak there were loud calls for Secretaries Chandler and Lincoln, who spoke briefly In the evening an elegant and informal banquet was given by the city government to the president, a few of his friends and federal officials in the city Mayor Green presided with the president on his right and Governor Long on his left

The Great Comet

Democratic Defaulter

CHICAGO, October 11 —The News says Frank J. Chase, chairman of the Cook county democratic committee, has proven defaulter for a sum estimated at fifty to seventy thousand dollars Drink, harlotry and speculation caused his downfall He was a lawyer and the money had been confided to him by his clients, who trusted him without security Mrs Norton, widow of Chase's protector, Judge Norton, loses $20,000, and through her the story first came to light. Chase managed to settle a small part of her claim to avoid the penitentiary, but other creditors have been within a few days pressing him so hard he has threatened to commit suicide and a custodian has been placed in his house Chase confesses his insolvency, but denies any criminal act. He says his attempts to get rich fast have resulted disastrously

Negro Disturbances

COLUMBUS, Ga, October 11 —Information has reached here of a contemplated uprising of negroes in Lee county, Alabama. A number of families have fled to this city and points near here for protection A trustworthy negro gave information to Robert Sasser of the intention of negroes to burn houses and massacre the whites on Friday or Saturday The trouble is said to have grown out of a disturbance caused by a negro shooting a white man some weeks since The wildest excitement is said to prevail all over Lee county, particularly around the Chewacko lime works Reports coming in cause some excitement here, yet they are regarded as much exaggerated but with some foundation

A special despatch from Youngsboro Ala., the nearest station to the Chewacko lime works, says there is no uprising of negroes in that section Other families who reached this city to night still say it is expected

UNION PACIFIC OUTLETS

Reports of Extensions Lately Circulated Denied.

CHICAGO, October 11 —Reports having been current for some days that the Union Pacific had determined to build an extension to the Pacific coast, in opposition to the Central Pacific, and another by way of its new Oregon branch to the Columbia river, a Tribune representative yesterday asked Mr. S H H Clark, general manager of the Union Pacific, what truth there was in these reports Mr Clark stated there was no foundation whatever in them, and no such extensions were contemplated There was some talk about a year ago about constructing a line from one point on the main line of the Union Pacific in Utah, south west to join the Atlantic and Pacific and then build jointly to San Francisco Since, however, an agreement has been made by which the latter is to be made as a Union Pacific western outlet for a number of years and the scheme of building an independent line has been abandoned The Atlantic & Pacific instead of connecting with the Union Pacific and building jointly to San Francisco, has decided to build to the Colorado river and there connect with the new line built by the Southern Pacific The Oregon branch of the Union Pacific would have its terminus at Baker City as originally proposed, and there connect with the Oregon Railway and Navigation company's line The Union Pacific arrangements for western outlets were so complete and favorable now Mr Clark said, there was no use spending money on a new and independent extension

PUGNACIOUS POSEY.

Lively Fight Between a Mob and Police.

EVANSVILLE Ind October 11 —The mob which took Redman from jail and murdered him last night were opposed in every possible way by the jailer and sheriff but were deterred neither by threats nor actual firing of pistols in their midst They said, when ordered to halt, "We are from Posey county and came after Redman and are going to have him" When the mob had full possession of the murderer they placed him in a buggy which was at once overturned and they decided to kill him on the spot and one man dealt him a powerful blow on the head, felling him to the ground A large force of police arrived at this point and opened fire on the mob, which retreated firing The fight was lively and none of the mob could be captured The result of the battle was that Redman was killed, with over twenty-four balls in his body and David Murphy brother in law of the murdered woman, was killed The mob separated quickly when Murphy fell Two men were arrested, but one a heavy set man, was released It was learned he was the leader, Dave McFadden A reporter was arrested He was a brother of the murdered woman A fourth and very pugnacious horseman was arrested later All were heavily armed and numbered some fifty in all The arrested will not be allowed bail if charged with murder

POLITICAL POINTS.

Causes of Democratic Victory in Ohio on Tuesday.

Speaker Keifer's Election Considered Very Doubtful.

Pennsylvania Republicans Look for Defeat.

Ohio Election

CINCINNATI, October 11 —Complete but unofficial returns from Hamilton county show the following democratic majorities Newton, secretary of state, 10,650, Okey, judge of supreme court, 9,800, Weiler, board of public works, 9,754, Hawkins, sheriff, 11, Dallon, clerk, 937, Hugh, prosecuting attorney, 2 635 Mucroft, coroner, 2,644, Robenstein, recorder, 27,288, Kuhn, county commissioner 3,177, Cosgrove county solicitor, 3 555, Fowler board of control 3 500 Applegate infirmary director, 381, Follet—congressman first district, 819, Jordan, congressman second district 1,763 The republicans claim the election of Beresford as sheriff

CHICAGO, October 11 —A Cleveland special reports that Edwin Cowles, of the Leader, says "The republicans have met the enemy led by John Barleycorn and King Gambrinus, and were routed horse, foot and dragoons The cause of their defeat can be traced clearly to prohibition When our republican legislature passed the law taxing saloons, which has since been declared unconstitutional, and the law closing saloons on Sunday, the German element, about 20,000 in number obeying orders from their leaders, resolved to punish the republicans for their temerity by voting with the democrats Added to this was the stampede of the republican workingmen on account of being worsted in the strikes, particularly that of the Cleveland rolling mills A director of that company, Mr Everett, was nominated for congress by the republicans, and became the target of the workingmen, hence his signal defeat in a strong republican district The impractical prohibitionists drew largely from republican ranks, and aided greatly in helping the saloonists and Germans in punishing that party It was simply an illustration of how extremists meet. Then the other class of temperance men throughout the state were in a lethargic state, and made no effort to appreciate what the republicans had done for temperance, resulting in an army-of-"stay at homes" To cap the climax the democrats were aided by a most efficient corps of assistants consisting of 15,000 saloonists and 5,000 bar tenders, making a force of 20,000 who electioneered and attended to all work in detail and stood around 1,900 polls peddling tickets in addition to other classes of work. They assessed themselves and contributed with what the brewers gave, nearly $100 000 to the state central committee to be used as a corruption fund All these causes resulted in the republicans losing the state by from 15 000 to 20 000 plurality We have lost a congressman in the Cleveland district, two in Cincinnati, one in the Toledo district. Judge Geddes has defeated Horr, republican Updegraff, McKinley and Kiefer are in danger The probability is that a very great majority of our twenty-one congressmen will be democrats The republicans had a similar experience in 1874, the year the ladies were engaged in the temperance movement, but they recovered the following year, when they elected Hayes governor It is quite clear Ohio, with its large foreign element and whisky drinking democrats, with its two parties evenly matched, cannot expect to follow the example of Kansas and Iowa, which have generally gone republican from 50,000 to 80,000 majority. In those states republicans outnumber democrats three to one, hence the temperance character of their people."

CHICAGO, October 11 The Times' Dayton special says The republicans of this part of the state and of the third congressional district have experienced an unprecedented Waterloo, the democrats have elected everything from top to bottom The ticket in this county, Montgomery, which gave a democratic majority of ninety in the Foster campaign last fall, runs up the figures to 1,000, a net gain of 1,700, Miami county shows up with a small republican gain not exceeding one hundred and fifty, Preble county reports the same state of affairs R. M Murray's majority, the democratic candidate for congress, will be not less than 200 The democratic gain in this county over the election for secretary of state in 1881 is 923 Last advices from Miami county indicate a democratic gain of 300, which will make Murray's majority 500 This is from a democratic source.

In West Virginia

WHEELING, W Va., October 11 —Roane county, the home of the democratic candidate for congress, and hitherto democratic by about three hundred, has given a democratic majority of less than 50 Reports from the interior counties indicate the probable election of Goff, republican, to congress from the first district by a small majority The second and fourth districts have been hotly contested There is not much doubt of both of them being carried by the democrats by majorities ranging from 1,000 to 1,500

Election Rows

DAYTON, O, October 11 —In a political quarrel at the Soldiers' Home last night August Mencke stabbed John Dean in the groin. Both are inmates of the Home In another political row a saloon keeper was fatally stabbed, and there were several other rows caused by the interference of a crowd of roughs at the polls to prevent votes being cast against the saloon keepers' interests Whisky and disorder were chief factors in the election

Pennsylvania Canvass.

PITTSBURG, October 11 —A prominent business man of this city, who has always been identified with the republican party and who spoke for about seventy-five other business men, also republicans, said this afternoon that they had made up their minds to vote the independent ticket as the only way to rid the party of this state of machine rule He believed democrats would elect their candidates next month, but this would not kill or seriously cripple the republican party Once rid of Cameronism they could re organize on a new basis which would give the people control and would soon regain their lost ground with a prospect of returning power for an indefinite period The sentiments expressed by this gentleman are wide spread here and elsewhere in the state, There seems no chance for the Cameron ticket

Spanish Politics

MADRID October 11 —A satisfactory compromise on the question of a reform constitution is being arranged Official notification of the formation of a new party and statements of its political views will be published during the week no manifesto will be issued

COLORADO CONGREGATIONALISTS

Ceremonies of the Installation of Rev Mr Gregg Last Evening.

At the evening session Rev James B Gregg was installed as pastor of the Congregational church of this place

The minutes were read after which the Rev M P Morris offered prayer After the reading of the scriptures from Isaiah XLth, and the singing of an anthem Rev J A Hilton preached the installation sermon from Romans i 14-16

I am debtor both to the Greeks and Barbarians both to the wise and to the unwise So as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel to you that are at Rome also For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth to the Jew first and also to the Greek

Paul was debtor said the speaker because he was the repository of knowledge of the lacks and needs of others Any one who has what another needs is debtor He was debtor under the law that every one owes himself to the world

He was ready to preach at Rome with whatever power in himself Every man ought to preach Christ according to what is in him No man can show all of Christ The combined shadowing forth of all are required to express Christ.

Then he comes to the emphatic part, I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ Men then as now honored every other part of man more than his moral nature Politics, art, literature, philosophy were the subjects of interest at Rome Paul when he went to Rome could furnish none of these things He had that for which there was no demand He was a Jew and bringing religion from India and so was the object of prejudice And then his religion compelled men to live according to their higher nature Casting the devil out of men is always a painful operation and they do not like to have it done in whole or in part

The gospel is the power of salvation, not to every one, but to every one that believeth The danger of the day is in honest doubt The tendency of much scientific thought is not towards pantheism, but through pantheism to atheism

Mr Hilton discussed at some length science and religion, claiming that religion satisfies a want in man's nature which nothing else can fill.

Then followed singing and the installation prayer by Rev Addison Blanchard

Rev C. M Saunders gave a somewhat lengthy charge to the pastor, charging him to be an appreciative pastor a hopeful, devoted, earnest, successful, provoking popular pastor, and not a speculating pastor

Rev. Mr Jones, of Manitou, made an address extending the right hand of fellowship

Rev. Dr Kirkwood, of the Presbyterian church, welcomed Mr Gregg on behalf of the other churches of the place

Rev Mr. Cross, formerly pastor of the church, charged the people His charge was

1 To pay and pray for their pastor

2 To be hopeful, appreciative, responsive

In concluding he congratulated the church on having secured Mr Gregg as their pastor

After the singing of Coronation the new pastor, Mr Gregg, pronounced the benediction.

President Palmer After a Trip Over the Road

Details Evidences of Its Solidity and Prosperity.

General Palmer has just issued the following circular, which will be of interest to many of our readers, as it satisfactorily explains certain charges made against the Denver & Rio Grande by eastern papers

OFFICE OF THE D. & R G RAILWAY CO }
COLORADO SPRINGS Oct 10 188 }

To Those Interested in the Denver and Rio Grande Railway

Having just finished an inspection of all the Denver and Rio Grande lines in Colorado and Utah, I wish to say a few words of truth and soberness to the stock and bondholders

Every holder should recognize the folly of lending an ear to the recent wild statements of certain New York newspapers Like all those which preceded them (about the earnings and over issue) whose falsity is now patent to all they have originated in the designs of reckless competitors or speculators interested in depreciating the company's securities Their source and animus must by this time be so evident that only the heat and thoughtlessness attending Wall street business can excuse the attention which has been given to them on the occasion of each renewed attack

The charges of last winter originated in the retaliation of an accountant, named Richardson, who had been discharged for drunkenness, and who at once sought a prominent operator in New York who paid him to concoct the particular lie of that season

The recent charges of August had no other basis than in the imagination of a man (Jefferds) who was refused employment as right of way agent by one of our companies and who then declared that he would make us pay handsomely for thus neglecting him It is scarcely necessary to say that he knows nothing about Colorado or the Denver and Rio Grande railway, lives at Galveston, and has not even seen any portion of the 1,000 miles of railroad which he presumes to compare with a cheap Texas railroad

A fit successor of these two disinterested worthies equally anxious to save the American public from injudicious investment, now pops up in the shape of a certain McAndrew As he is neither a discharged employe or a refused applicant for employment, he would have been considered a myth had not the words noted contractor been appended to his name It is unfortunate that he makes his first appearance in the columns of the same newspapers which heralded his predecessors His yarn although wilder, if possible, than the other two, was of course immediately, and without application to the company's office in New York (as would have been natural) flashed over the United States through the useful agency of the Associated Press—a circumstance that sufficiently indicates the inspiration of what, for purposes of distinction may be called the lie for the month of October If this man exists at all he must be a contractor The newspapers referred to are similar contractors But when they contract for such ignoble services a short but old fashioned English word would seem more fitly to designate the profession.

The real proprietor of the newspaper which has chiefly become notorious as the organ for these slanders, has the reputation of being so skillful in manipulating the approaches to and machinery of law, that by advice of eminent counsel we have thought it wiser to defer an endeavor to get justice from the courts until we could give it more attention than the principal officers of the company, with the work they have in hand, can now afford

There is no more valuable railroad property in the west than the Denver & Rio Grande railway, but the rapidity of its growth has prevented its securities from being digested in the short time that has elapsed since it emerged from its mere local character, especially as half of this intervening period has been one in which investors have been inclined to hold aloof from everything new In April, 1880, the company had 337 miles It now has completed (including Utah) 1,475 miles, of which the Denver & Rio Grande is already operating 1,160 miles, and earning therefrom nearly $600,000 per month I have no doubt that at least one-third will be added to these monthly earnings by its completion to and intersection with the line from Salt Lake, which may be expected in February Having just returned from Utah over this extension I am satisfied that at least one-half of the travel, and a large share of the freight of which the Union Pacific now enjoys a complete monopoly, will hereafter seek this most central of all the trans continental routes, while the local interchange between Colorado and Utah would alone be sufficient to support the line The Denver and Rio Grande railway taps nearly all the productive mining districts in Colorado, and so much of the east and west line, (from Denver and Pueblo to Salt Lake,) was planned independently of other considerations, and was warranted both in Colorado and Utah by the demands of their local mining districts and tributary supply towns, that only some 200 miles of intervening unsettled country are really dependent, even for immediate results, upon this through connection I found the Denver and Rio Grande Western company was already earning the interest on its bonds for the section of 1[illegible] miles opened, so that it is impossible it should ever prove any tax upon the Colorado company by reason of the guarantee. On the contrary, it will evidently be an unmixed benefit, adding heavily to the traffic of the latter, without taking a dollar from its coffers

Nearly 1,000 miles of the large mileage that has been added to the old road in the two years and a half referred to, has been in the most difficult parts of the Rocky mountains. No honest traveler who has visited Colorado can avoid confirming this statement. In this part of the continent it is a matter of common report. How the robust liars who have charged the contrary could have been bold enough to have attacked the company on this impregnable point, so evident to the most indifferent passenger who goes over the line, can only be understood by those who appreciate the extent to which financial life in New York exists upon just such reckless falsehoods, which, amid all the flurry and excitement have their temporary effect even on people who know them to be false, because they think others may believe them

In the effort to penetrate rich or promising districts for business, by lines of moderate gradients along the main drains or through the best passes of the country constituting its best and permanent channels for traffic, we have occupied gorges and cañons in the Rocky mountains which have heretofore been considered utterly impracticable This policy has been carried out to such an extent, that nearly all of the extensions have been expensive—there has scarcely been one to help bring down the average in cost The cash cost of this 1,000 miles has been more than double what it would be to build a line of 1 000 miles immediately parallel to the Union Pacific from Omaha to Salt Lake, and capable of carrying all the travel and freight that the latter is now competent for But it is from what they have seen of the Union Pacific which crosses the swelling plain that avoids the Rocky mountains altogether (and thereby avoids all the local business and activity of development which characterizes Colorado) and has nothing to indicate a mountainous character except its bad gradients that many people derive their conceptions of this country

There is no company of any importance in the United States a larger proportion of whose line occupies a difficult and expensive country than in the case of the Denver & Rio Grande At the same time it is a well known fact that there are few if any of importance whose issues of bonds and stock are so low in amount per mile

As regards the trembling rival whose securities swollen to $110 000 per mile are threatened by the new and better line to Salt Lake and to the Central Pacific connection and who, with its confederates, is at the bottom of many of the attacks and rumors about the Denver & Rio Grande railway company which have been so notorious during the past year, it is interesting to note that with an infinitely better local country, we shall have to earn only about one-third as much per mile as that concern to produce the same dividends

In conclusion although such practical facts seem to have little weight on Wall street, I will venture to remark, that the Denver & Rio Grande railway company is carrying freight at the rate of one million tons per annum, of which one-half is coal

That besides wool cattle, hides and supplies for numerous towns and farming districts it is carrying a very large tonnage in ores of every kind, bullion charcoal and coke, besides the provisions and forage, merchandise, machinery, lumber, iron and supplies of every description for a dozen stirring mining districts which yield nearly all the $23,000,000 billion produced yearly in Colorado,

That it is carrying passengers at the rate of about 400 000 per annum

That this large business is not done at excessive rates as alleged, which are liable to sudden and serious reduction, but at the average rate of 3 and 0 10 cents per ton per mile and 5¼ cents per passenger per mile or nearly as low as the mountainous character of the country is likely soon to warrant.

That notwithstanding certain mines in Colorado may be up or down, there is a constant gain in the ore-production, which was larger last year than the year before, and is likely to be larger this year than last, and will in all probability go on increasing with the development of the old and the discovery of new districts, as long as any of us or our children are likely to be interested in the question The San Juan region alone has so many veins of admitted value that before it is as old as the state of Colorado is now, it is quite possible that its yield of precious metals may exceed the present yield of the entire state

All of these mining districts of the precious ores lead, copper etc., the coal fields with every grade of coal from coking coal to anthracite, numerous large iron mines, whose product is certainly unexcelled in quality by that of any country known, are not only, it must be remembered now tapped by the Denver & Rio Grande lines, but are reached by the best routes through defiles and passes, selected when the whole country was open to us, and which should it ever come to competition, ought to be able permanently to defy it.

If instead of throwing your stock overboard in a state of foolish panic at every one of these attacks—when you can see as plain as daylight the strings and the juggler who plays them and even the well known old way in which it is done and the end he is driving at, I venture to suggest that you try the experiment of holding on over one of these spasms —say for instance the next one and watch the result.

It is only a very few months now before the Salt Lake and Central Pacific connection will be made by the Denver and Rio Grande. The least reflection must show you that this will give it a large additional traffic—that a line on the parallel of St. Louis, Cincinnati, Pittsburg and Philadelphia, connecting two great railroad systems on the eastern base of the Rocky mountains, with the Central Pacific at their western base, and occupying the best mining districts and the best farming valleys of Colorado and Utah en route must have some considerable business, and that, to say the least, a line which has the most exceptionally successful railroad enterprises of the United States as neighbors on the east and west of it—the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, the Chicago Burlington and Quincy, the Central Pacific, Utah Central and Utah Northern, must in ordinary course, give some promise of satisfactory results That long lines of railway on the arid plains east and west of the Rocky mountains should pay so extremely well and yet doubts be entertained regarding the road which traverses and embraces the rich districts whose trade these lines were extended across the great plains to reach, is inconceivable

When it is further remembered that our line, although occupying the best gorges and passes of the country, is represented by a capital of less than an average of $37,000 per mile, while its present gross commercial earnings, without any of this new business and before its thousand miles of new line in Colorado are fairly released from the working parties, exceed $6,000 per mile per annum, and are $600,000 ahead of what they were for the first nine months of last year, is it too much to ask that a little patience be exercised by stockholders until they can have an opportunity of ascertaining what these additional results will prove For my part, I believe they will alone amount to a dividend on the stock of both the Denver and Rio Grande and the Denver and Rio Grande Western companies.

As the officers of this company are busy men, whose thoughts and time should be fully engrossed by the real work in hand, no further attention will be paid to any charges or rumors appearing in the public prints, but the above explanations will have to suffice, at least until the completion of our great trunk line.

A railroad accident on the Texas Pacific resulting in killing five or six persons and wounding others is reported

Mr Howard Carroll, of the New York Times, has been nominated for congressman-at-large in New York by the republican committee to take the place of Mr Hepburn, who declined. Mr Carroll recently wrote the following in my card. If Mr Carroll is honest in his pledges we look for him to lead his ticket. It has been stated in a prominent newspaper of this city that the suggestion of 'my name as a candidate for congressman-at-large is prompted by a belief that such nomination on the part of the republican state committee would result in a large contribution of money to be used in the pending canvass. I have no reason to believe there is any foundation in fact for this statement. Still, that there may be no possibility of mistake, and in simple fairness to the gentlemen who have the matter in control, I take this public way of saying, with as much emphasis as may be, that, from careful observation and somewhat intimate acquaintance with the inner workings of both great political parties I am convinced that the one greatest curse of our political system is the corrupt use of money and patronage in elections. Were I nominated I should not, directly or indirectly, pay or cause to be paid one dollar to secure an election. Further than this, I may say that, believing the work of office-seeking, place brokerage, and position peddling to be no part of the duty of a member of congress I should, if elected, refuse positively to take any part in the general scramble for places in the departments—an occupation which can only be engaged in by neglecting legitimate and necessary work in the house at the sacrifice of self respect and to the serious detriment and disgrace of public service. In short, I could only accept the nomination with the distinct understanding that, in addition to earnestly and sincerely subscribing to all the time honored principles of my party, I should enter the canvass upon the clean, new platform of honest progressive, and independent republicanism. If there be any gentleman who would vote for my nomination on other terms, I beg him refrain from doing so. His action could only result in disappointment."

The Cincinnati Commercial gives the following statement of the situation in Tennessee, a statement not at all to the credit of that state

It is impossible to arouse much interest in Tennessee politics. Even the address of the central democratic campaign committee to the people of the state, which is as long and dull as one of James Buchanan's messages to congress fails to excite one

The fact is, all parties in Tennessee are saturated with the idea of repudiation. Not one of them proposes to pay a just debt for its full face, though the state is abundantly able to reimburse its creditors to the last dollar. There is not a political party in all Tennessee who would venture to advocate such a measure of justice. Consequently the effort of one party to show that it is honester than the other party because it proposes to pay a few cents more on the dollar does not impress us as evidence of a very exalted order of public morality in Tennessee

It is true that the legislature did in 1883 pass a bill settling the entire legal indebtedness at sixty per cent of the principal, with interest at three per cent for two years, four per cent for two years five per cent for two years, and six per cent for the remaining years which the thirty year bonds had to run. It is true also that the creditors agreed to settle on these terms not because they were not legally and morally entitled to more, but because if they did not accept there was danger that they would get nothing

What must have been the sense of moral obligation throughout the state when on the fact that it had forced its creditors to settle on the basis of sixty cents on the dollar a great hallelujah was raised because the state credit had been saved! Usually when a man fails in business and settles with his creditors at fifty or sixty cents on the dollar he does not go parading the public streets and calling attention to his extraordinary honesty. The spectacle of a great state, with limitless resources in her soil and mines shouting over the fact that her credit was saved by precisely such a transaction only, instead of paying money, issuing more bonds which she may find it convenient to scale again—was not one bearing the impress of either commercial or political honor

The contest just now in Tennessee is between the readjusters and the so-called state credit party. The former are not satisfied with the terms of settlement. There are certain local bonds which they want recognized and paid in full, while the rest they would have compromised at fifty cents on the dollar. To this difference between readjusters and state credit people the long address of the campaign committee is devoted. They demonstrate to a nicety that by standing by the act of the legislature the state will in the long run get off cheaper than if the readjuster policy is substituted for it. That is to say, the creditors will get less for the money they blindly loaned for the uses of the state

The argument will probably have its effect on the average Tennessee tax payer who will be pleased with any plan that will most effectually relieve him of the liquidation of just obligations and, at the same time save the credit of the state. Your Tennessean is devoted to the credit of his state. He would immolate himself on the altar of the state rather than her credit should suffer and he doesn't know that a credit built upon an act forcing a settlement at sixty cents on the dollar is not as precious as that of the United States, which pays its debt, principal and interest, to the last cent

Ancient Flavorings

Fraser's Magazine

It is a canon of cookery that there should be a little salt in all sweet dishes, and a little sugar in all savory dishes but that the palate should not perceive the mixture. In many of the recipes of the fifteenth century large quantities of sugar and honey are mixed with spices and saffron, and few dishes can have had distinctive flavor or color. Spices and sugar were brought from Venice in 1485, the freight for gross spice, small spice, and Levant sugar is regulated by no less a person than the Doge. Later on, in 1505, pepper is worth 18½ gros the pound, equal to 50 ducats the cargo, ginger from Alexandria 24 gros and what comes from Portugal, of which there is very little, fetches 17 gros. The ducat at Antwerp is worth 76 gros. Milk and butter are so seldom used we infer they were very scarce articles. "May butter" is once named as an ingredient. Probably no butter was made for many months of the year during which the cows were too ill fed to yield milk or the calves required it exclusively. Salted butter there was, but over salted and ill made, and no improvement to "cookery." Milk of almonds is constantly named where we should use cream or milk, though it must always have been a costly material. Perhaps the explanation is that these recipes came from the south of France and Italy, where the climate does not favor the use of cream. The impression we receive from a study of these recipes is not favorable to the taste of our ancestors. Savory dishes are spoiled by the introduction of sweet ingredients, sweet dishes by an indiscriminate use of spices. If a number of dishes are desirable, each dish should have its distinct flavor, and should be acceptable to different palates, or to the palate at different stages of a repast

Henry Irving, the English Actor

Henry Irving was born at Keinton, near Glastonbury, Somersetshire, England February 6, 1838. His full name is John Henry Brodrib Irving. He was educated at a private academy in London, with the view to his employment in commercial pursuits. In pursuance of this intention, upon his removal from school, he was placed in the office of an East India merchant, but his bias toward the stage was so strong within him that while still young he broke away from business and committed himself to the vicissitudes of the actor's career. His first appearance before the public was at Sunderland, in the north of England, where he essayed, with no striking success the part of Orleans in "Richelieu." His subsequent appearance in the same house as Cleomenes in Shakespeare's "The Winter's Tale," is said to have been not more remarkable than his first venture, but his engagement in 1857 at the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh seems to indicate that his studious and conscientious attention to his art was not unfruitful in results at least promising. Two years and a half with a company including such performers as Miss Cushman, Miss Helen Faucit, Messrs Vandenhoff Robson, Charles Matthews the younger, Benjamin Webster and Wright proved invaluable to the young aspirant, who, in 1859, appeared in the Princess' Theatre, London. His brief engagement there was succeeded by his engagement in Manchester, where he undertook to play Hamlet. By 1866 he had earned a high position as an actor, and appeared as such on the boards of the St James Theatre London, in various important parts. In 1868 and 1869 he acted in the New Queen's and Drury Lane theatres in the same metropolis, with still increasing reputation. Engagements at the Vaudeville and Lyceum theatres followed. In the last named house his personation of Mathias in "The Bells" gave him a reputation equal to the greatest ever earned on the stage and his place in the forefront of contemporary actors has been maintained ever since. This was in November, 1871 a date memorable in the annals of triumphant acting. His undertaking was to depict, in the language of the London Times "the concluding hours of a life passed in a constant effort to preserve a cheerful exterior with a conscience tortured till it has become a monomania." A subsequent notable success was his part of Charles I in Mr W J Wills' "Charles the First," which was performed on consecutive nights for more than half a year. Mr Irving's Richelieu, Hamlet, Macbeth, Philip in Tennyson's "Queen Mary," Richard III, his assumption of the two parts of Lesurques and Dubosc in Mr Charles Reade's "Lyons Mail," and his Louis the Eleventh are known, by name at least, to all readers of the newspapers. Hamlet especially commanded great attention from scholarly critics and when Mr Irving shall appear in the United States his personation of this difficult character will be given probably greater attention than any other in his wide range of parts. Since 1878 he has been manager of the Lyceum theatre, London, which is described as a perfect temple of the drama

It may be gathered, from considerable reading on the subject, that Henry Irving is a hard student with the means and opportunities to read and think much and to assist his natural extraordinary histrionic perception with the observations of scholarly and gifted people. He is a sympathetic man, and possessed of an astonishing celerity of thought and changeful emotion. His face is wonderfully expressive, and the movements of his somewhat awkward tall and gaunt frame, are so ably managed that his physical disadvantages are overlooked in the perfection of his acting. He makes a skillful use of his hands in reading his lines and their shapely beauty is said to assist the illusion wrought by his sympathetic and intense elocution. Lastly Mr Irving is always original in his most hackneyed parts he is true to his own intelligent perception of the manner in which they should be played

Jenny Lind's Courtship

The Century

I am a Quaker, as you know, a Philadelphian recently said to me and it is reported that shortly before Jenny Lind's visit to our city an aged lady arose in one of our meetings and said she had heard that Jane Lyon, a very wicked woman, was on her way to this country to sing, and she hoped none of the young people would be drawn away to hear her. Nevertheless, an uncle took me and my brother to the Saturday matinee. We had seats in the balcony and so near the stage that we could in a way see behind the scenes. Early in the entertainment Jenny Lind sang "Home, Sweet Home," and the audience was beside itself. Among the members of her company was her future husband, Otto Goldschmidt. He was to the audience simply an unknown pianist, and to be obliged to listen to anything but the voice of Jenny Lind was provoking. Well the man played and from where we sat we could see Jenny Lind behind the curtain listening most intently. When he had finished the audience seemed in nowise disposed to applaud but Jenny Lind began to clap her hands vigorously, observing which—we boys reinforced her, and observing her face light up—I can see the love-light on it yet—we clapped furiously until the applause spread through the audience. When he had finished playing a second time my brother and I set the ball in motion, and the applause was great enough to satisfy even the fiance of Otto Goldschmidt."

Through a Bridge.

St. Louis, October 11.—A very meagre report from Dallas to-day says a train on the Texas Pacific road ran through a bridge over Sweet Water river, two hundred miles east of Dallas, at an early hour yesterday morning. The report says five or six persons were killed and several wounded, but no one seems to have any definite information and as no train has since come in from the east and railroad men will not talk no particulars can be given.

In the Whole History of Medicine

No preparation has ever performed such marvellous cures, or maintained so wide a reputation, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which is recognized as the world's remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs. Its long-continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it universally known as a safe and reliable agent to employ. Against ordinary colds, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders, it acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering, and often saving life. The protection it affords, by its timely use in throat and chest disorders, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. From their knowledge of its composition and operation, physicians use the CHERRY PECTORAL extensively in their practice, and clergymen recommend it. It is absolutely certain in its healing effects, and will always cure where cures are possible.

For sale by all druggists.

Nothing Short of Unmistakable Benefits

Conferred upon tens of thousands of sufferers could originate and maintain the reputation which AYER'S SARSAPARILLA enjoys. It is a compound of the best vegetable alteratives, with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron,—all powerful, blood-making, blood-cleansing and life-sustaining—and is the most effectual of all remedies for scrofulous, mercurial, or blood disorders. Uniformly successful and certain, it produces rapid and complete cures of Scrofula, Sores, Boils, Humors, Pimples, Eruptions, Skin Diseases and all disorders arising from impurity of the blood. By its invigorating effects it always relieves and often cures Liver Complaints, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, and is a potent renewer of waning vitality. For purifying the blood it has no equal. It tones up the system, restores and preserves the health, and imparts vigor and energy. For forty years it has been in extensive use, and is to-day the most available medicine for the suffering sick.

Choral Union

To the Editor of the GAZETTE

SIR —In reply to a letter in your last issue signed "Ichabod," I would point out that the constitution of the Choral union, as published in the newspapers, provides for two grades

Grade 1—For those who wish to acquire the act of singing at sight

Grade 2—For the practice of vocal concerted music

A preliminary examination as to proficiency will be necessary for admission into the second grade This examination will be held at the first general meeting of the Choral union As some persons, however, might consider a public examination unpleasant, I will receive candidates at my residence, 20 Pike's Peak avenue, on Saturday next, at any hour after ten in the morning, and will give such as are sufficiently advanced certificates of entry into grade two
